RESOLVED!
THAT GRANDPA GROUCH HAS NO RESOLUTION. HE WONT PULL HIMSELF TOGETHER AND CONTROL HIS TEMPER. IF A MAN CANT MANAGE HIMSELF HE'S GOT A SWELL CHANCE TO MANAGE ANYTHING ELSE. POOR GRANDPA, WHY CANT HE SEE THAT IT IS FOOLISH TO LET OTHER PEOPLE URSET HIM. WHEN YOU ALLOW SOME PINHEAD TO DISTURB YOU YOU ARE VERY WEAK. I'M NOT GOING TO ALLOW SOME REINCARNATION OF NOTHING TO UPSET MY EQUILIBRIUM. I WONT EVEN WORRY OVER MY OWN MISTAKES. I AM NOT THE ONLY ONE WHO MAKES 'EM.

SCIENCE THUS "LOVE RAYS"

CAN THE HEARTS OF YOUNG LOVERS
BE TESTED TO MAKE SURE THAT THEY ARE SCIENTIFICALLY
MATED FOR LIFELONG HAPPINESS?

By Kerrison B. Caylor, M. D.

THERE is something about him which is so magnetic. "There is something about her I do not like." How often one hears such expressions—and how easily is it all explained by the new scientific method of mating husbands and wives by the invisible radiations of colored light which human beings are now known to emit!

Sages, philosophers and the deepest thinkers of all ages have known well of these invisible radiations, to which the more modern occultist has given the name of the "aura." Even the matter-of-fact scientist and mere physicist is now acknowledging that man is radioactive and gives out "N" rays, and thus by the application of scientific principles he has "discovered" for himself what sages and seers have known for ages—viz., that man emanates invisible rays. And just here may be found a satisfactory explanation of those apparently unaccountable likes and dislikes which we take toward one another, as also the explanation of those powerful attractions which end in happy marriages, as well as those which result in disastrously unhappy ones.

All—and they are now many—who can see a little beyond the ordinary range of sight are aware that beyond the mere physical spectrum is another spectrum—an octave of colors visible to, or rather sensed by, those who are possessed with the gift of an extension of sight into the finer realms of existence; who can, in other words, visualize that beyond the ordinarily seen colors are other ranges of color, just in the same way that there are vibrations of the air, producing sound, which are not cognizant to our ordinary sense of hearing. These shades of color, mental and spiritual conditions. To some this idea may appear fanciful; so have many things when first mooted, but which have, after a time, been accepted by the scientific world and by so-called "practical" men of the world.

Let us consider for a moment the color of these radiations from some people and then apply the test to the subject more immediately in hand. The deep blue radiations imply deep thought; it is often around those of high intellect—writers, philosophers, and even some doctors. Yellow radiations stand for wisdom and the highest intuition. All Theosophists and students of the occult, past and present, are agreed upon this point. Those who have a melancholy upon them, or who are anxious about their affairs, are enveloped in invisible gray; I have found, too, that as the anxiety or melancholy increases, so invariably deepens also the shade of gray about and around the individual, until around the confirmed hypochondriac we come to the darkest gray.

In severe physical illness dark green is the shade mostly conspicuously sensed, and when death is near this passes into almost a black—overwhelming the deep blue of the intellect, or, it may be, the yellow of wisdom, the pink of affection, the light green of growth and progress.

And now applying this theory to marriage in the abstract, we shall fain have to admit that in the very great majority of cases choice of a partner is made from the physical or what is called the base line of the triangle which is often used to symbolize man.

All occultists have ever taught that man might be very well represented by a triangle. He should be equally developed on all three sides of his nature, thus forming an equilateral triangle—of body, soul and spirit. But, alas!

this triangle is, as a rule, a sorry, lopsided one, with the physical (the base line) more pronounced than either of the other two.

That man is such a trinity of being was known to the most ancient writers and philosophers, and the fact is corroborated by all modern students of the occult.

We find this question of the triangle as related to man fully and ably worked out in a chapter dealing with the metaphysics of marriage in Florence Huntley's "Harmonies of Evolution."

And so, with the idea of man as a trinity, it will be readily understood that if a man whose physical base line alone in the triangle of his being be developed married one who was nearly all intellect and soul the result would be nothing but disastrous inharmonious.

Let us now translate these various sides of the triangle into color. All students of the occult have agreed that the physical in man is represented by the color red; my own numerous experiments in this direction have confirmed all my reading of other authorities in the matter. The deeper the shade of red which the man gives off the more base and accentuated are his passions; the lighter they are the more affectionate is the individual, until we come right into the shade of the rose pink, when we find that he (or she) who emanates such is invariably of a loving, altruistic disposition. Now, we can easily imagine that this mysterious (colored) effluence of one person could exert an appreciable effect upon the invisible effluence of another, resulting in the one being drawn to or repelled by that other. It is all a matter of the invisible vibrations around us; the so-called "personal magnetism" can be interpreted on this hypothesis.

Now, in dealing with this all-important subject of scientific marriage the writer would like it to be clearly understood that in no way he wishes it to be thought that he is "playing to the gallery." On the contrary, his main idea is to treat it from the scientific, the psychological, the occult (or hidden) and the reform aspects of the case. His object is, if possible, to show how the tens of thousands of ill-assorted marriages might be prevented; to lift marriage on to a higher plane, and to point out how all can help to place it on that altitude.

It may seem strange to some of my readers that a physician should go out of his way, as it were, to tackle a subject which is apparently outside the range of his daily duties; but to some minds medicine alone does not give scope enough for one's mental energies, especially when there are such patent, glaring evils to attack—when there are things staring in one's face which are ruining the health and the happiness of hundreds of thousands of human beings. Moreover, surely it is the experienced physician who sees more of the miseries of married people than any one else. By his very calling he is made to learn secrets of the family which are told to no others.

He is inducted into many of the quarrels and disastrous conditions always incidental in the lives of unhappily married people; he naturally becomes the confidant of either husband or wife—sometimes, indeed, of both. But when, in addition to this, the physician is also an occultist—that is, one who has attempted to look behind all things and has learned that there is an occult (or hidden) meaning in every experience—then, surely, he has some little justification in putting his thoughts into words and print. Moreover, I have no hesitation in saying that it is the occultist—he who reads by the inner light the inner meaning of all life's experiences—who will be the teacher and the reformer of the near future.

Ever since the far-back, misty dawn of the world—before the morning stars sang together, because there were no morning stars as yet to sing—great love evolved itself out of the great chaos—the wonderful law of attraction. As soon upon scene before man appeared upon the earth this marvelous principle of attraction and physical union was operative, foreshadowing the marriage of man and female which was to be in the later ages. Positive and negative atoms were attracted then toward each other, just as now the positive in the man is attracted toward the negative in the woman; the single atom possessed the property of polarity, and, after all, we ourselves are but conglomerates of atoms endowed with polarity. Oxygen and hydrogen in that early infancy of the world fell in love with each other, as did other gases; all for a set purpose, all to carry out the one eternal purpose. And so in the Mineral Age the principle of attraction and union was again in evidence; positive and negative elements flew together quite naturally, just as the young men and maidens of to-day are drawn together by an irresistible law of nature. And when in the mighty march of evolution plant life appeared upon the earth a higher marriage of atoms took place. "Male and female created he them." Beautiful and wondrous unions took place. Yes, differentiation of sex was plainly visible—or, rather, would have been if man had been there to see it. The best possible conditions were given to the plants for courtship, marriage and reproduction; these processes and conditions can be watched

a Pretty Work Apron.
Easily Made by the Home Dressmaker

THERE is always a certain charm about a dainty white house apron. This one is easily made and is very becoming and serviceable as well. The princess front adds greatly to the dressy character of the garment, and the folds of embroidery that form the trimming give the wide shoulder effect so essential to the present style. It would also be suitable as a maid's apron.

Cross-barred muslin, linen, English and percale are all suitable to the design. The medium size will require 4½ yds. of 35-inch material.

The patterns for the ladies' princess apron have been cut in waist for small, medium and large, and may be obtained by carefully filling in the blank below (crossing out the sizes you do not want) and mailing with ten cents in silver or stamps to:

CONSTELLATION PUZZLE BY SAM LOYD

We have for our little readers this week a puzzle as the stars. A new constellation is seen in the sky, and we ask our clever puzzleists to try and separate all of the stars from each other by drawing the fewest number of straight lines. To guide our puzzle solvers we will say that the correct answer will show each star in a separate space between two lines, and all of the lines will have the appearance of a single pointed star.

Among those who send in the correct answers 1,000 new interesting puzzle books will be distributed. Mail your answers to:

THE "DEMON OF UNREST"

STANDING on your back, swinging his lash, there is the hideous little demon of unrest that you see in this picture.

The more cruel he is the better for you. The oftener and harder he strikes with his whip the higher you will climb.

Not a man escapes the blows of this energetic, fierce, tireless demon. From the beginning of the world he has stood up the back of every man, lashing a slashing and driving the human race upward.

Some of us have thick hides and scarcely feel the blows. Some of us are tired cowards, and stop climbing after a few years. The little demon gets off the backs of the thick-skinned and the cowards, and goes off to help some fellow demon lash harder on a better back. Lucky the man who has two demons instead of one to drive him.

When a man is wasting his time at night in foolish self-indulgence, if he stops with a feeling of shame for himself and for the worthless people around him, this demon is at work.

Whenever YOU are dissatisfied with what you do, whenever you make a plan for better work, the invisible little imp is lashing your sides.

The harder he hits the more grateful you should be. When you cease to feel his blows you may know that your days of growth and upward climbing are about done.

This lashing imp is known by many names. AMBITION is one of them, DISCONTENT another. It stands for everything that makes men dissatisfied with themselves and dissatisfied with things as they are.

This demon stood on the back of Alexander the Great when as a boy he conquered the famous horse Bucephalus. The restless spirit of Alexander was driven by unrest from that day until the day of his death in Babylon.

All the way from Macedonia to the great Persian empire that he conquered, unrest, discontent, ambition drove Alexander on.

It made him put 50,000 Persian children in schools, thus spreading the genius and learning of Greece in the Eastern world. It made him conquer all that was worth conquering on the earth, and even then the demon was not satisfied, but lashed his man on to a desire for the conquest of other worlds.

Napoleon carried this lashing, slashing demon with him all of his life. It took him, a Corsican boy, with no start in the world, and drove him to the throne of an emperor. It tortured him cruelly on the lonely island after his work was done, when even unrest and discontent could drive him no farther.

Every man who has added an invention to the world's useful knowledge has done so in obedience to the lash of discontent. Every man who has helped others to free themselves, every enemy of tyranny, of superstition and ignorance, has had this demon on his back driving him.

Lucky is the discontented man. He may die prematurely and disappointed, as did Alexander. He may end in a living prison like Napoleon. BUT HE WILL ACCOMPLISH SOMETHING.

Study and encourage THE RIGHT KIND of discontent in yourself. This a device we shall preach to you over and over.

If you stand to-day where you stood last year or the year before, your "demon of unrest" has been neglecting his work, or he has given you up as too thick-skinned and indifferent to be worth driving. Set him to work again if you can, and encourage him to hit harder.

There will be plenty of time for peace and rest in the grave. You came out of a mystery into a few years of conscious life, and you are going back out of this life soon enough. Use your few years, grow all you can, change all you can, achieve all you can.

Encourage mental restlessness in your children, answer their questions based on hunger and discontent of the mind.

Question yourself and watch yourself. Contentment means stagnation, and stagnation is death.

Every man here on earth has a duty, the duty TO DO HIS BEST.

And every man should have in his mind the beautiful words of Jesus, when He restored sight to the blind man:

"I must do the works of Him that sent me while it is day: the night cometh when no man can work."—John ix, 4.

Don't be satisfied with yourself. Don't sag down, or give up, and never be found asking that coward's question, "What's the use?"

Order men before you have done their share. DO YOURS. If you cannot do a big thing, do a small one, but DO SOMETHING. No matter how hard you work, work harder. Work for the love of work, and work will take care of you.

It's better to be like Niagara, or even like a very small waterfall, than to be a stagnant pond.

ROBERT CARTER

Not a Pleasant Driver, but He Causes All Our Progress

Do well who, you have in hand, but every day ask yourself, "What can I do that is better?"

Never rest or overwork your mind. It is the BODY that gets tired, especially the body misused by a dull, stagnant spirit.

That is a fatigue in the brain. That marvellous machine can work sixteen hours of every twenty-four, and it continues to work, push, pull, and thrive on the work.

Thought, ambition, discontent are FORCES, and unlike MATERIAL THINGS forces do not get tired. Keep at it, work hard and then harder. Around you in this country are eighty millions of human beings, and on the entire earth are fourteen hundred millions. You are running an endurance race for life against them all.

When other men waste time, READ AND STUDY.

When other men squander money, save yours to be used wisely.

Learn independence through economy.

Learn education through study.

Learn power and push through self-control.

Be a man who is satisfied eternally with yourself, and before you the KNOW AND PROVE WHAT IS IN YOU. May UNREST and discontent forever drive you on and make of you one of the human beings worthy of the great men and women that have lived and TRIED on this earth before us.

SOCIETY OUT IN FORCE

Lenox, May 25. Assistant Governor of Massachusetts Robert Bacon attended the wedding of his niece, Miss Marion Constance Bacon, at Trinity Church in New York City, and gave the bride away. Miss Bacon was married to John C. Greenleaf, son of Dr. and Mrs. Richard C. Greenleaf of New York City. Dr. J. P. Bacon performed the ceremony. The church was lavishly decorated with lilies of the valley, white and pink flowers.

The bride was given in white satin, trimmed with white ribbons, a veil of rare lace, and a high collar. She wore a diamond necklace and earrings. The groom wore a tuxedo and a white bow tie. The wedding party included the bride's mother, Mrs. John C. Greenleaf, and the groom's mother, Mrs. Robert Bacon.

MAYORS TO AID IN BOSTON 'OLD HOME'

Thousands of Invitations and Circulars to Be Sent Out

COMMITTEES WORK HARD

Plans for Suburban Celebrations Are Rapidly Nearing Completion.

Mayor Fitzgerald will send out this week several thousand invitations to the residents of Boston and over the country to the "celebrating" which will take place in Boston during the week of August 3, "Old Home Week."

It is the intention of the city to have every family in the United States, existing in the big Boston region in the suburbs, invited to the celebration. The invitation is being sent to every family in the United States, through the medium of the post office.

Committee at Work.

In addition to the executive and administrative committee, which meets frequently, a number of other committees of patriotic societies, which meet at the city hall, are working on the celebration. They have every Monday at 11 o'clock a meeting in the city hall, and on the second hand at every hour. Including this work on Monday, the committee has been working on the celebration of America's 45th birthday for the past several months. The committee is charged with the job of elevating the patriotic sentiment of the people.

The plans for the latter are well under way. The committee has appointed a sub-committee on the part of the city, and a special committee to cooperate with other local organizations in the celebration. The committee is also working on the part of the city to have the celebration take place in the greatest manner possible. The committee is also working on the part of the city to have the celebration take place in the greatest manner possible.

Quincy will probably take some formal notice of the Boston celebration, as there will be many visitors who will want to visit that place to see the historic church and graveyard and the tombs of the Adamses.

Major Fitzgerald has received from Free Claxton & Sharp of the Woman's Young Enterprise Society a letter cordially

A meeting of the retail merchants of the city, for the purpose of forming a special "Old Home Week" committee to cooperate with the general committee will be held at the rooms of the Boston Merchants' Association, 77 Summer street, Friday at 2:30 p.m.

A Beneficial Advantage

Men enter business to make money. Goods must be sold at a certain profit to make it. The percentage of profit depends largely on the expense it takes to run the business. Rent demands the most consideration. Many stores could sell at lower prices if this burden was lessened. High rent affects the prices more than any other expense. The customer pays for it. The merchant must make money.

It is estimated that we save fifteen thousand dollars yearly by having our large store in Cambridge instead of Boston. As we rival any Boston furniture store in wire, equipment and buying capacity, this saving is worth something to you. It isn't as if we were a small store with a meager trade. Our customers come from all over Greater Boston.

With our advantage of low rent we make low prices. Prove it yourself. Then your mind will rest easy. Come right over.

BRITISH PEOPLE TO DECIDE HOME RULE?

Voters to Elect House of Commons May Soon Hold Solution of Question.

BANNERMAN 'COMFORTED'

Daily News, Principal Government Organ, Deplores Dublin Action.

LONDON, May 25.—The situation in Ireland has been a subject of much discussion in the House of Commons today. The Nationalist Government, led by Mr. Bannerman, has been accused of being responsible for the recent Dublin action. Mr. Bannerman, however, has been 'comforted' by the Daily News, the principal government organ, which deplores the Dublin action.

May Go to Government. Irishmen are now free to face with open eyes the situation in Ireland. It is significant in this connection that the Nationalist Government has been accused of being responsible for the recent Dublin action. Mr. Bannerman, however, has been 'comforted' by the Daily News, the principal government organ, which deplores the Dublin action.

MRS. GOULD TELLS OF DRUG PLOT TO TRAP HER INTO A MADHOUSE.

Amazing Revelations in Marital Scandal Brought Out in Charges.

WOULD BE HELD AS INSANE

Millionaire Yachtsman to File Answer to Mrs. Gould's Charges.

New York, May 27.—Mrs. Gould, wife of the late John D. Gould, has filed a sensational charge against her husband's estate, claiming that a plot was hatched to trap her into a madhouse. The charge is part of a larger marital scandal that has been in the news for some time. Mrs. Gould claims that her husband's estate is attempting to force her into a lunatic asylum by spreading rumors and using other means to drive her insane. She has filed a bill in the New York Supreme Court to have the charges investigated and to have her husband's estate held accountable.

A CERTAIN number of mothers, who recently had their babies photographed, are to be congratulated on a hundred years' worth of beauty.

"In a hundred years from now," an Englishman, "such a contest would arouse the interest of a few old men."

It is a hundred years ago that a baby was a curiosity, and a mother a curiosity. In a hundred years from now, a baby will be a curiosity, and a mother a curiosity.
